SESSION NOTES.

OTTAWA, May 11, '99.

The resolution to purchase the Drummond Counties railway in order to extend the Intercolonial railway to Montreal was debated on Tuesday. The price to be paid is $1,600,000. The opposition demanded fuller information before allowing the resolution to go to committee of the whole, and adopted what appeared to be obstructive tactics during most of the afternoon. The resolution went to committee by a vote of 80 to 38. They dropped their objection of last year that the Intercolonial should not compete with the C. P. R., and concentrated their attack on the price to be paid as excessive.

Hon. Mr. Blair spoke at great length, showing that the price paid was less than had been paid per mile for any former extension of the Intercolonial by the late government. As a result of the extension to Montreal the profits had increased and the recurring deficit would be overcome. He asserted that the operations of the year would show a greater surplus of earnings than was shown by all previous years of the operation of the road put together.

On Wednesday, Charlton's bill relating to the offences of abduction and seduction, changing the word "sixteen" to the word "eighteen" where it occurs in a section of the criminal code was carried by a large majority. Mr. Charlton has fought this question for a number of years and has at last achieved success as far as the commons is concerned. The bill has yet to pass the senate and may be slaughtered there.

The Columbia & Western railway is the extension of the Crow's Nest railway from Robson, on the Columbia, to Midway in the Kettle river country. The C. P. R. asked for power to bond the road for $35,000 a mile. Also all branches which might be built in future to the same amount. While granting the full bonding powers asked in respect of the main line to Midway, now under construction, an amendment was offered to refuse the right to bond the branches until the house had information as to what they would cost. The ground taken was that if railway rates were to be effectively controlled and the rights of capital at the same time respected, it was necessary for parliament to exercise its authority to require roads to be bonded on the basis of their cost instead of as at present on their earning power. It was desired by the movers of the amendment to withhold the privilege of bonding the branches until an estimate of their cost had been given, as had been regarding the main line. Regarding this road it had also appeared in the railway committee that the company proposed to side track the town of Grand Forks because they could not make enough out of the Grand Forks town site. Messrs. Bostock, Oliver, McCarthy, Robertson, Richardson and Sproule, spoke in favor of the amendment, which was defeated by a large majority. All the members of the government present, including Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Hon. Mr. Sifton voted against the amendment except the solicitor-general Fitzpatrick, who voted for it. Robertson and Clarke, of Toronto, were the only conservatives who voted for the amendment. The question really was whether the House of Commons was willing to give the C. P. R. anything they wanted whether reasonable or not, and only fourteen members voted against doing so. Not a very bright look out for the protection of the public interest against railway monopoly.

Douglas' grain bill to compel the C. P. R. to accept grain for shipment from flat warehouses, notwithstanding their agreement to the contrary with the elevator companies, came before a special committee on Wednesday morning. The Manitoba elevator men and the C. P. R. have combined to preserve the monopoly at present existing in the western grain trade. Vice-President Shaughnessy, and Secretary Drinkwater and ex-Judge Clark, solicitor for the C. P. R., were present on behalf of that company. R. P. Robin, N. Bawlf and a number of other leading elevator owners from Manitoba were also present to oppose the bill, which only asks that the farmers of Western Canada be accorded the most elementary rights of private citizens, in respect to shipment of their produce. Mr. Douglas, mover of the bill, and R. P. Robin, of the Dominion Elevator Co., addressed the committee. Another meeting will be held to-morrow morning.

The Athabasca treaty commission will leave Ottawa on Monday next and expect to start north from Edmonton about May 24th.

Dupont's survey party left to-day for the Stikine river to explore for a railway line southeastward from Glenora to the Peace river pass, to meet the work done by Dibble during the past winter northwestward from the mouth of the Omenica.

JASPER PASS MINES.

The recently reported strike of placer gold on the Swift Current branch of the Fraser river in the Jasper Pass gives special interest to the latest report of the geological survey department, which contains a condensed account of McEvoy's explorations of last summer, and which confirms very largely the views of recent prospectors.

Mr. McEvoy left Edmonton on June 7th, and Lake St. Ann on June 11th. He gives a very complete and particular account of the trail followed, the rivers crossed, the timber, and the geological formation. He says the trail requires 17 to 20 days to reach Tete Jaune Cache from Kamloops in the present state of the trails, a distance of 215 miles. From Edmonton to the Cache, a distance of about 350 miles, requires ordinarily 25 days, but in a very favorable season the distance might be covered in twenty days.

The wagon road extends to Lake St. Ann, 90 miles west of Edmonton. Swift Current Creek is ten miles east of Tete Jaune Cache so that the distance to be packed from Kamloops is 225 miles against 290 miles from Edmonton. As he says that the trip can be made from Edmonton in a favorable season as quickly as from Kamloops it follows that the road from Edmonton must be better than that from Kamloops. And as the country between Kamloops and the Cache is entirely in Mountains, while the greater part of that from Edmonton is comparatively level, the difficulties of road making are much less on the east than on the west side. Certainly there would be no difficulty in clearing out a trail from Edmonton which could be used by double sleighs during the winter. The wagon road now existing as far as Lake St. Ann, 50 miles, might very well be extended to the Pembina river 40 miles further. This would reduce the distance to be packed to 250 miles, and would be useful in developing the country for settlement as far as the Pembina.

Mr. McEvoy mentions a seam of coal on one side of the Pembina near the trail crossing 17 feet thick, and on the opposite side of the river one 13 feet thick.

Speaking of mineral deposits near Tete Jaune Cache (on Fraser river ten miles beyond Swift Current, and near the western outlet of the pass through the Rocky Mountains) he says: "The rocks hold numerous veins of coarse pegmatite, which besides the ordinary constituents, contain tourmaline, garnet, cyanite, beryl and apatite. On one of these veins the Bonanza mica claim is located, seven miles south of Tete Jaune Cache, 5,300 feet above the level of the Fraser. The vein is about fifteen feet wide, where an opening has been made, dipping S. 45° W. conformably with the country rock. Messrs. S. Winter and J. F. Smith, with a party of ten men, were engaged in taking out and cutting mica intended for shipment by pack horses to the railway. The quartz, felspar and mica, are separated into large masses, the crystals of mica being frequently eight inches long and eleven inches wide and are found in greatest abundance near the hanging wall. While practically no work has been done with a view of proving the extent of the deposit, it may reasonably be expected from what actually appears, that a large quantity of mica can be obtained here. The mica is a transparent muscovite with a very light greenish cast and is otherwise of excellent quality. Another claim owned by some Edmonton miners, is situated a few miles southeast of the Bonanza. Fifteen miles to the southeast on the mountains, near the headwaters of Canoe river, several claims have also been staked. On one of these some work is reported to have been done, exposing a deposit of marketable mica. It may be expected that further discoveries of valuable mica deposits will be made in these rocks, which are of the same character for a distance of twenty miles and probably much further."

"The rocks of the Shuswap series mentioned above as occupying the southwestern side of the great valley (of the Fraser west of the Rockies) do not carry gold, but on the other side colors can be obtained in most of the tributary streams. On the mountains, about seven miles from the Cache, numerous quartz veins were observed. Where these were noted the cleavage of the rocks dips south at high angles while a secondary vertical cleavage or jointage runs north and south. The larger and more numerous quartz veins run parallel to this secondary cleavage, and have a thickness of from one to five feet, while smaller lenticular veins follow the principal cleavage. These veins show a good deal of oxidized iron pyrites and some galena. The galena proved to be argentiferous, (silver bearing)."

"Quartz veins are to be seen in many places along the route all the way from this place to the Athabasca river. On the Miette river (east side of summit) the rocks are frequently marked with a reticulation of small veins of white quartz. Sometimes these reach a width of two feet and over, and claims have been located there from which assays of eight dollars per ton in gold are reported. Colors of gold can be obtained in several places on the Miette river. At the faulted junction of the limestone near Henry house, galena was noted in a small vein.

Swift Current river, on which placer gold was recently reported to have been found, is an erratic, turbulent stream fed by glaciers. It may sometimes be forced without difficulty in the morning and by evening be utterly impassable. It comes into the Fraser from the north about sixteen miles below the outlet of an expansion of the Fraser (while still in the Jasper pass) called Moose lake and ten miles above, or east of Tete Jaune Cache. It is about forty-five miles west of the Summit of the pass.

A stream of sulphur water, three feet wide and four inches deep, is found three miles west of Jasper lake on the Athabasca, east of the summit. Several other smaller sulphur springs occur along this part of the Athabasca.

At Henry house, on the Athabasca, and well within the mountains and east of the summit, Mr. Swift had a crop of wheat and potatoes. He cut the wheat on Sept. 1st. Both potatoes and wheat were of good quality.

Mr. McEvoy continues: "A great part of the bottom land of the Athabasca valley would yield good crops. There is an abundance of good grass all along the route from Edmonton to the pass, more particularly in the vicinity of the streams, and a wide belt of good pasture land extends along the base of the mountains to the south. The country generally is capable of supporting a large amount of stock. Horses are wintered out successfully on the Athabasca river and at other places.

As to the route from Edmonton for a railway and wagon road Mr. McEvoy remarks that there is absolutely no danger of snow slides in the pass. He continues: "If may also be worthy of note that this pass affords an easy means of access from the Northwest (Territories) to the great valley previously mentioned, which forming as it does such a good national highway, should eventually become the chief route for communication between north and south. The advantages of the route for a wagon road are even greater than for a railway, as in making such a road no such cutting would be necessary.

FORT GRAHAM.

The Free Press, of the 13th, contains an interesting letter from correspondent at Graham, descriptive of the trail to the trail and the country adjacent thereto. It is after that St. John is passed that the trail presents its greatest difficulties in the way of muskegs and precipitous hills. The banks of the Peace and Finlay rivers are strewn with fallen timber and drift piles, this with occasional cut banks compel the crossing and re-crossing of the river. To overcome these the correspondent advocates, "brave hearts, cool judgment and mule-like energy."

On the headwaters of the Ingenica river, some 20 miles beyond Fort Graham, a number of prospectors were at work. Quartz claims of which fair prospects are reported were staked last summer.

An old miner named Vital, who has had much experience in all the mining districts of B. C., and who worked the bars of the Finlay and Parsnip rivers between Fort Graham and Fort McLeod for two years, making $800 in two years just from skimming the bars, is the only prospector who had made prospects of the Ingenica up to 1894. He reports that the north headwaters of Ingenica river had better indications of a gold bearing region than any other mining district of British Columbia both in placer and quartz. He himself had made as high as an ounce of gold per day on Ingenica, staying there about one month and taking out over $160. The following summer he worked on the South Fork, but found no prospects. Great difficulty is experienced as present in penetrating this unexplored country, but this summer should develop more stable finds and a route should be opened to that country.

In April, 1895, three prospectors started up the Finlay river and returning after thirteen days work being away eighteen days in all, took $1,334 off what is known as the $1,300 bar, at the junction of the North Fork of the Finlay river. One of the same party, accompanied by Vital, started from Graham on the 1st August, 1895, and returned after one month with $260, taken from $1,300 bar. In the spring of '96 nine men went up as far as the forks, of these seven became discouraged and returned without accomplishing anything. The remaining two took off $300 of the above staked bar. During last summer several miners went up the river, some passing over a bar that $88 was taken off not many days after, by three days' work. Since about $66 has been panned off the same dump, as by the rapidity of the current the bars are being continually changed. Real work will be done this summer and it is hoped that results will be realized far exceeding anticipations. Two miles claims have been taken up about 15 miles south-west of Graham. The indications are good.

The lowest temperature this winter was 60 below zero.

SWIFT CURRENT GOLDFIELDERS.

Golden Era: On Friday the first party of the season left Golden for Tete Jaune Cache and other parties will follow rapidly. The party consisted of Malcolm McDonald and mate, who built a boat at Golden, and with their supplies, started to take the Columbia river to the Big Bend, and thence by Canoe river. The unfavorable news from the Cache has not prevented the influx of people that will go in there. Many people will not believe the story we published as to the unsatisfactory results obtained, and argue that if it were no good Price and his friends would not want to get back there so soon. They also point out that it is well known that placer gold exists in more or less quantities all the way along the great western valley of the Rockies from Golden to the far north, and that even if Swift Current is no good there are thousands of localities in this valley yet unprospected, in many parts of which payable gold is almost certain to be found, and they point to the facts of Manson creek, Nation river, Omicame, Peace, Parsnip and Findlay rivers, all connected with this basin, in all of which payable gold has been found in confirmation.

The next fortnight will see 50 men and 100 horses loaded with supplies on their way to the north. The government have bought two boats built by F. Berthelme for use at the Golden & Fort Steele Development Company's property at Kinbasket lake, and these boats will be put on Bush river for the transportation of the supplies of travellers from Golden to the north.
